MT. CLARE, June 16.—Professor and the Rev. Floris Davidson, of Lost Creek, filled the pulpit here for the Rev. H. B. Workman of the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. Many people here are pleased to learn that the board of education for Grant district has employed him as principal of our graded schools for the fall and winter term.

Owing to some dissatisfaction among both pupils and tax-payers of this vicinity over the action of the board in refusing transportation to pupils living at a distance from the school, together with the very short hours of instruction given last winter, there is some talk of circulating a petition to the board, asking that they submit to the voters of Grant district at the fall election the question of discontinuing the high school for an indefinite period.

The Rev. E. G. Vincent had the misfortune to lose a very fine driving horse on last Tuesday morning. With two other horses that were running in a field adjacent to the railroad and traction line, and in some way the bars were thrown down some time Monday night, and they came out upon the tracks, and in attempting to pass over the creek on a trestle near Alpha stop, the horse was caught between the ties, and some of its legs were broken and so badly lacerated, that it had to be killed to end its suffering. The other horses and two cows that came out of the field were uninjured.

Several persons from Clarksburg came up Tuesday and Wednesday to call on Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Morris, both of whom have been on the sick list for some time. They are both able to be up a good portion of the time, but not able to be out.

The auto fever has become epidemic in this vicinity, although we have very little of public roads that are fit to drive a buggy over, no less than fourteen machines have been bought within a radius of one mile from the Baltimore and Ohio depot. I suppose they will be content with "watchful waiting" for the roads to get smooth, though some of them can be seen bumping over the rough roads as they are.

Many Mt. Clare people were shocked late Wednesday evening to learn of the death of Miss Olive Malone who died in a Clarksburg hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Miss Malone was the popular daughter of Mr. Ward Malone who was formerly a mine foreman and lived several years a resident of our town, and the family have the sympathy of many admiring friends here.

Canary birds came originally from the Canary Islands and were not yellow, but olive green.
It has been demonstrated that a well constructed brick house will outlast one of granite.

SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 16.—One of the wildest banquets ever given in New York was held at the McAlpin the other night by the Society of American Magicians. One hundred of the foremost prestidigitators were there including Houdini who inhaled soup without the aid of a syphon.

There were live Poulets de Philadelphia in some of the casseroles but the chef refused to believe it even when he brought a well-trussed fowl roasted to a turn in a covered dish and found it alive and full-feathered when he opened it. He turned pale and disappeared in the freight elevator.

Madame Herriman put the reverse English on the justly celebrated Biblical miracle of turning water into wine by transforming all the dry Martinis served to her neighbors into cold tea. One man devoured six lady fingers and then found them all in his vest pocket without any marks of mastication.

A very large red, and therefore, boiled lobster jumped off an ice platter and turned over a vase of flowers before the servants could arrest him and a large live garter snake was seen in President Richard Van Dlen's salad long before any liquor had been served to him.

Champagne bottles popped gaily, but refused to disgorge their sparkling liquids when tilted over glasses. And then when the guests started to go, house detectives were called in and asked to search them. They did and every one present had dozens of knives, spoons and forks hidden on them to their utter amazement.

New York is now being regaled with the palpitating details of what they call the Cream Puff murder trial. Verne Hardin Porter asks if it means that somebody killed the man that invented the cream puff and if so why are they trying him?

The passing on of Harris Merton Lyon, the short story writer, removes a gifted author from New York's literary ranks when he was at his best. Lyon came from the Missouri University to New York Journalism. He soon developed into a star writer on the late Hampton's magazine.

The writer saw him on Broadway a short while ago. He was on his way to Kfene's chop house to discuss a series of stories with a magazine editor over luncheon.

The bold literary thief who painstakingly condensed Frank Norris's "Blix" into a short story and sold it to the Atlantic Monthly has been victimizing editors here for some time and getting away with it. Peculiarly he has written several short stories under his own name that were original.

But for plagiarism purposes he used a fake name. The fact that "Blix" even in bastard form was put over in the Atlantic is considered quite a hopeful sign for their idea of realism has usually consisted of a bleak New England family doing nothing of any importance with much literary skill.

Pawlona, Lopokova, Chalif, Nijinsky and other stars of the classical dance are being sought by a group of New
